Subject: Question for Senator Deutch's office

Vern,

I hope you are doing well. I do not know if you have received anything similar to this but it is common to do this? Is it just standard procedure or something new?

I, as I suppose most of my fellow school district employees, have just received notice of a pending Dependents Audit Verification for insurance eligibility. For me this is a first and I find it to be highly offensive, unduely burdensome and possibly illegal. Through the years I have been employed by various entities, public and private and never have I been asked to provide similar verification. I have been employed by the school district for the past seven years, married to the same man for 35 years and while I would expect that college verification for my daughter is reasonable, the request for certified copies of marriage and birth certificate is not. Please look into this matter and I will do the same. Your timely response is appreciated.

Bonnie K. Cohen, JD

Thanks
